Supreme Court Activity

Filings

During FY 2025, 362 cases were filed in the Supreme Court, a 0.2 percent increase from the total filed in FY 2024. The number of civil appeals filed was down 8 percent from the previous year; petitions for hearing increased 10 percent; and petitions for review increased by 26 percent. The category that includes bar matters, federal certification matters, and original applications decreased 28 percent from the previous year. For details about filings in various categories of cases from FY 2021 through FY 2025, see page 9.

Dispositions

The Supreme Court disposed of 372 cases in FY 2025, an 11 percent increase from FY 2024. The court issued 72 full opinions, 62 MO&Js, and seven published orders. For details about dispositions by case type in FY 2025, see page 10. For comparisons of dispositions by case type from FY 2021 through FY 2025, see page 9.

Pending Caseload

On June 30, 2025, 311 cases were pending, a four percent decrease from the end of FY 2024. Of these pending cases, 60 percent were at a stage prior to submission to the court (filing pending, awaiting settlement conference, awaiting record or transcripts, awaiting briefs, awaiting argument or conference, or awaiting response to a petition). Seven percent were stayed or were awaiting rehearing or record return prior to closing, and the remaining 33 percent were under advisement (submitted to the court but awaiting circulation of a draft opinion, publication of an opinion, or decision on a petition). For a comparison of cases pending at year's end according to case type from FY 2021 through FY 2025, see page 9. For the status of cases pending at the end of FY 2025 according to case type, see page 10.

Time Required for Disposition of Cases

In 50 percent of appeals decided by opinion or MO&J, the time from submission (usually the date of oral argument or conference on the briefs) to publication of a decision was 9.1 months or less. For petitions, bar matters, and original applications, 50 percent were completed (from opening to closing) in 2.0 months or less. Additional information about time to disposition can be found at page 11.

Court of Appeals Activity

Filings

During FY 2025, 287 cases were filed in the Court of Appeals, a 22 percent increase from the total filed in FY 2024. Merit appeal filings increased by 29 percent from the previous year, while sentence appeal filings decreased 27 percent. Petition for review and petition for hearing filings increased by 43 percent, and original application and bail appeal filings decreased by 21 percent from FY 2024. For a comparison of filings in various case categories from FY 2021 through FY 2025, see page 13.

Dispositions

The Court of Appeals disposed of 233 cases in FY 2025. This was a ten percent increase from FY 2024. The court issued 25 full opinions, 93 memorandum opinions and summary dispositions, and three published orders. For details about the types and caseload composition of dispositions in FY 2025, see page 13. For comparisons of dispositions by case type from FY 2021 through FY 2025, see page 13.

Pending Caseload

On June 30, 2025, 459 cases were pending before the Court of Appeals. Of these cases, 81 percent were at a stage prior to submission to the court (filing pending, awaiting record, awaiting briefing, awaiting oral argument, or awaiting response to a petition). Three percent were awaiting rehearing or record return prior to closing; two percent were stayed or remanded; and the remaining 14 percent were under advisement (submitted to the court but awaiting circulation of a draft opinion, publication of an opinion, or a decision on a petition). For a comparison of cases pending at year's end according to case type from FY 2021 through FY 2025, see page 13. For the status of cases pending at the end of FY 2025 according to case type, see page 14.

Time Required for Disposition of Cases

In 50 percent of appeals decided by opinion or MO&J, the time from submission (usually the date of oral argument or conference on the briefs) to publication of a decision was 2.3 months or less. Fifty percent of petitions and original applications were completed (from opening to closing) in 1.2 months or less. Additional information about time to disposition can be found at page 15.

Note for Researchers

Readers and researchers should be aware that occasional changes in the manner in which cases are reported or recorded by the Alaska Court System may account for some changes over time in case filing totals for specific courts or jurisdictions. While the court system attempts to make the data tables in the annual report as consistent as possible from year to year, care is necessary, especially when discerning trends or making comparisons between time periods.

Statewide Trial Courts

Trial Court Activity

Filings

During FY25, 92,809 cases were filed in the trial courts, an increase of 0.1 percent from 92,719 filings in FY24.

The FY25 Superior Court filings were 20,613, a decrease of 0.1 percent from 20,637 filings in FY24. Probate decreased by 3.1 percent, felony filings decreased by 2.5 percent, and delinquency filings decreased by 0.5 percent. General civil filings increased by 8.6 percent, CINA filings increased by 4.1 percent, and domestic relations filings increased by 1.2 percent.

The FY25 District Court filings were 72,196, an increase of 0.2 percent from 72,082 filings in FY24. General civil filings increased 16.6 percent and minor offense filings increased 2.7 percent. Small claims filings decreased 13.8 percent, misdemeanor filings decreased 8.7 percent, and civil protective order filings decreased 0.2 percent.

Dispositions

The trial courts disposed of 97,449 cases in FY25, an increase of 3.1 percent from the 94,509 dispositions reported in FY24. To avoid a backlog of cases awaiting disposition, courts aspire to have a clearance rate of 100 percent or higher, meaning that they have cleared (i.e., disposed of) at least as many cases as were filed during the period. The clearance rate for trial court cases was 105.0 percent in FY25.

Explanatory Notes

Felony Filings

Most felony cases are initiated in District Court and then transferred to Superior Court after indictment by a grand jury or the filing of an information. Since most of the activity in a felony case typically occurs in the Superior Court, felony cases are reported as Superior Court filings regardless of whether they were initiated in District Court or in the Superior Court. A table showing the number of felony cases initiated in the District Court is provided for informational purposes (Table 5.13, page 74). To avoid double counting, these filings are not included in the District Court filing totals, but should be considered when evaluating the workload of a District Court.

Criminal Case Categorization

Criminal cases are categorized based on the most serious charge at filing. For example, if a defendant is charged with a felony and two misdemeanors, the case is counted as a felony. If the felony charge is subsequently reduced to a misdemeanor, the case type does not change; the case is still categorized as a felony for reporting purposes.

Reopened Cases

The criminal filing statistics in this report include only new case filings and do not include petitions to revoke probation or other proceedings that cause the court to reopen a criminal case. Likewise, the domestic relations filing statistics include only new case filings and do not include post-judgment motions to modify custody, support or visitation. Because this post-judgment activity significantly impacts the trial court workload, tables showing this activity are provided for informational purposes. The number of petitions to revoke probation in felony and misdemeanor cases can be found in Tables 4.11 and 5.14 (pages 40 and 75). The number of filings of motions to modify custody, support, or visitation can be found in Table 4.19 (page 48).

Civil Protective Order Cases

The civil protective order case group includes petitions for domestic violence, stalking, and sexual assault protective orders. These cases may be filed in either District or Superior Court, but District Courts handle the vast majority. Because readers and researchers often want to know the total number of civil protective order cases that were filed, domestic violence, stalking, and sexual assault protective order cases filed in the Superior Court are counted with the District Court cases.

Note for Researchers

Readers and researchers should be aware that occasional changes in the manner in which cases are reported or recorded by the Alaska Court System may account for some changes over time in case filing totals for specific courts or jurisdictions. While the court system attempts to make the data tables in the annual report as consistent as possible from year to year, care is necessary, especially when discerning trends or making comparisons between time periods.

An individual court site serves more than just the named town or village; for example, the population figure for Galena includes not just the figure for Galena itself, but also for Huslia, Koyukuk, Nulato, Kaltag, and Ruby.

Note: This table is comparable to Table 6.01 on page 153 of the FY17 annual report.

N/S: Numbers 10 or less are not compared statistically.

1. Chevak court closed in FY 2014; McGrath and Tanana courts closed in FY 2015; Kake court closed in October 2018.

2. Beginning with FY 2019, the Petersburg venue population includes the population previously covered by Kake. The Hoonah population now includes the population numbers for Gustavus, Tenakee Springs, and Excursion Inlet, which were previously included within the Juneau venue population.

3. Craig court was renamed Prince of Wales in FY 2016.

4. St. Mary's court closed in 2016. Records for filings from the venue are still maintained separately.

Criminal cases typically contain multiple charges. The Alaska Court System categorizes cases for reporting purposes based on the most serious charge.

In FY07 the Alaska Court System changed the way it categorizes criminal cases for annual reporting. The categories now conform to the National Center for State Courts' national model for caseload statistical reporting. This change is intended to make Alaska statistics easier to compile, understand, and compare to those of other jurisdictions.

Clearance rate measures whether a court is keeping up with its incoming caseload. Courts aspire to clear (i.e., dispose of) at least as many cases as have been filed in a period by having a clearance rate of 100 percent or higher.

N/S: Numbers 10 or less are not compared statistically.

1. St. Mary's court closed in 2016. Records for filings from the venue are still maintained separately.

Percentages within categories.

This chart analyzes the composition of cases filed in District Court during FY25. Misdemeanor cases represent approximately 44.2% of the non-minor offense caseload. Approximately 26.6% of all misdemeanor cases involve a involve driving while intoxicated or another criminal traffic violation (for example, driving with suspended license).

1. The Civil Protective Order case group includes petitions for domestic violence, stalking and sexual assault protective orders.

Criminal cases typically contain multiple charges. The Alaska Court System categorizes cases for reporting purposes based on the most serious charge.

In FY07 the Alaska Court System changed the way it categorizes criminal cases for annual reporting. The categories now conform to the National Center for State Courts' national model for caseload statistical reporting. This change is intended to make Alaska statistics easier to compile, understand, and compare to those of other jurisdictions.

In FY07 the Alaska Court System changed the way it categorizes minor offenses for annual reporting. The traffic categories now conform to the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators (AAMVA) Code Dictionary. This change is intended to make Alaska statistics easier to compile, understand, and compare to those of other jurisdictions.
